ALL YOUR BASE NOW REALLY ARE BELONG TO US

There was an arcade game made in Japan by Toaplan that had a short intro video (or “cut scene”) to the game "Zero Wing." The original Japanese script was poorly translated into English. The game never made it big in the west; however, the broken English translation for the opening video became one of the first “memes” on the Internet. In the cut scene, the alliance's mighty Zero Wing battle cruiser has been sabotaged. As bombs slowly rip the ship apart, the crew panics and the Captain freezes when he sees his arch enemy "CATS" on the holo-screen. CATS taunts the crew as he belts out his infamous line "All Your Base Are Belong To Us" and bids the crew a fierily farewell. In the talcMedia animated production, you will hear the voices of Cliff Simon as "Narrator" (Ba'al, Stargate SG-1), Colin Baker as "Captain" (Doctor Who #6, Doctor Who), Claudia Christian as "Mechanic" (Commander Ivanova, Babylon 5), Lizzie Roper as "Operator" (Doctor Who BBC Radio series), and Terry Molloy as "CATS" (Davros of the Daleks, Doctor Who).

THE WORLD OF ALL YOUR BASE: LAST OF LAST

Everything that happens in this game, as in the short film that inspired the game and the arcade game that inspired the short film. The year is AD 2101, and the context is an intergalactic war.

CATS, the villain, is trying to capture all bases to get more and more power, so your objective is to do it first. It is fun to act like the villain every time you hurt your enemies in the game. So you can go "ha, ha, ha. HA!". In fact, you have to; it's part of the rules. And if you win, you MUST say, with your best villain face: "All Your Base Are Belong To Us," just like in the original movie.

Notice the bad grammar? Well, it's not English, it's Engrish. (The Japanese actually call it Japanese-English or "Jinglish", the Americans came up with "Engrish".) That was the case with the Arcade game "Zero Wing", which gave origin to one of the funniest memes of all times. And today, it is a new epic short film!

WHAT DO YOU GET IN THE BOX?

- BASE: From Alpha to Omega, these cards are like your spatial houses where you are going to store ships, so you need to protect them from your enemies' attacks.
- RED ALERT: The Red Alert cards are the ones that shake things during the game for all the players. There are different strategies that you can use to get different results, but in any case, you must use them wisely.
- SHIPS: Depending on the ship, you will get different defense and attack points. Some have huge attack and defense points but most common ship is the Zig fighter.
- CREW: With every member of the crew, you receive extra attack points. Your strategy must take into account these points together with the ships because the crew offers you no additional defense points...
- ENGAGE BRAINS and have FUN: Because you need to observe, plan, make calculations, and think fast. And, you will have a lot of fun trying to outsmart your opponents. Use your imagination, get into your roles, and each time you play, it will be a memorable moment for you, your friends, and family.

THE GAME

Each player-turn has multiple phases that is reminiscent of strategic games but is simple to learn and play:
